About Town:

Roseville man remains connected to West Sacramento schoolchildren

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

He's one of the best friends students at Westmore Oaks Elementary School have -- even though he's not on the school district payroll and doesn't even live or work in West Sacramento.

Howard Smith, who turns 82 next month, is a retired Roseville resident who makes the almost 60-mile round trip between his home and the West Sacramento school several times a month to spend time with the class he has "adopted" at Westmore Oaks.

It's a habit he picked up 11 years ago, before he retired from his West Sacramento job.

"I was working in West Sacramento at Mac Tools on Enterprise Blvd.," Smith explained. "The Chamber of Commerce had what they called an 'Adopt a School' program. They came and asked me to adopt a school."

Smith was immediately interested, and asked what this entailed.

"They said, 'Read to the kids,' " he related.

"I said no, I can't read to them worth a darn. Why don't I bring businesses into the classes?"

Using this philosophy, Smith began to spend time with his "adopted" classes every year, first in the Bryte area and now at the Fallbrook Ave. site of Westmore Oaks Elementary. He visits the class himself, teaching them how to find everything from emergency C.P.R. lessons to the phone numbers of elected officials inside the common phone book, for example, and takes the time to line up guest speakers for the kids.

"I always have a fifth grade class, because I like that age," he commented. "I want the highest grade not yet in junior high school, so they are old enough to understand the things I want to discuss."

This year, Smith has adopted the combined fourth/fifth grade students of Mrs. McDaniels at Westmore Oaks.

"At the beginning of the year, my first talk with them was about setting goals," he said. "I asked each of them to give me their goals for the year, and I'll talk to them at the end of the year. We'll talk about how they did on their goals. Some of them will have changed their goals."

He also talks to the kids about love.

"I ask the kids to tell their parents they love them when they go to bed at night, and tell their grandparents they love them, and to use that word, love."

And Smith also makes the phone calls to line up guests from various professions to visit the class.

"The first guest I had this year was Dave Bender, the weatherman from Channel 13," Smith reported. "I had a coin collector also, and we gave the kids each a coin book, with five coins in each one -- that cost me $66! I've got a stamp collector coming, and the West Sacramento Fire Department, and PG&E -- they do a table demonstration with either gas or electricity that's just great."

Vermont Ave. home damaged in two-alarm blaze

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A two-alarm fire severely damaged a Vermont Ave. home and left Stone Blvd. east of Vermont closed for about three hours yesterday. But no one was injured by the blaze, reports West Sacramento Fire Marshal Mike Foley.

"The initial report came in at about 11 a.m. regarding smoke coming from the attic," Foley said. "Upon our arrival, we found smoke coming from the eaves and fire blowing out the rear windows."

A second alarm was called, and additional units -- to a total of six engines and about 25 fire department personnel -- were called to the home on the 1900-block of Vermont. As a matter of routine, units from Sacramento, Davis and UC Davis helped cover the scene and standby in West Sacramento after the second alarm was called. To ensure unblocked access for emergency vehicles, Stone Blvd. nearby was cordoned off from Jefferson Blvd. to Vermont until the fire location was cleared at about 2 p.m.

The couple residing in the home were uninjured, Foley stated. But the house did not fare so well.

"There was severe structural damage to the roof, attic, and rear of the home, and smoke damage throughout," said Foley, adding that the cost of the damage had not yet been estimated.

The couple were being assisted by a relative after the incident.

Investigation into the cause of the fire continues, reports Foley, but early indications are the fire may have started due to an accident.

"Initial reports are that the man was using a hand held propane cylinder to thaw out water pipes that had hardened during the freeze, and did not have much success, and set it down and walked away. A half hour later, the place was in flames."

Adjacent homes were threatened but never damaged by the fire, Foley added.

Robbery foiled after scuffle in shoe store

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A man released from Salinas Valley State Prison early Sunday found himself in jail in Yolo County the same evening. The man is believed responsible for an attempted robbery Sunday at Payless ShoeSource, 705 Jefferson Blvd. in West Sacramento.

"We had an attempted robbery at Payless Shoes at about 6 p.m.," reported Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "A subject decided to walk into Payless and confronted the female salesperson, demanding she give him all the money and threatening her with a weapon he said he had in a paper bag. She said she couldn't get into the cash register. He came around to her, and they got into a wrestling match.

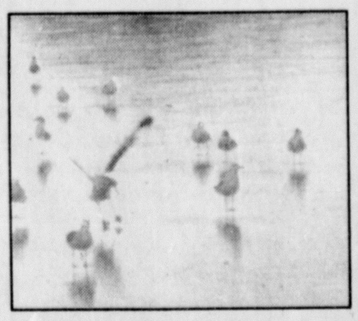
Temps dip, lake freezes

A few snowflakes were sighted in the Sacramento area on Sunday, and temperatures dropped well below freezing on Monday night -- leading to an unusual layer of ice on Touchstone Lake near Linden Road on Tuesday.

The ice broke up in the late afternoon, but was expected to be back again today as unusually cold temperatures continued.



Burglary, stolen car lead to arrests of kids

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Several juveniles were arrested in two unrelated crimes early this week.

■ Two boys (identities withheld due to their ages) were arrested early Monday morning after a woman noticed that her garage was being burglarized and flagged down a police officer who just happened to be passing by.

That incident occurred on Holland Dr. at about 2:35 a.m. Monday.

"An officer was flagged down by a resident who said two people had broken into her garage," said Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "Somehow she had noticed they had entered the side door using a pry bar. The officer went in and checked and found two juveniles hiding in the garage."

Also found in the garage was a chain saw that did not belong to the resident.

The youths were booked on burglary charges.

■ Coincidence also played a role in the arrest early Sunday of three boys involved in a multi-city car pursuit originating in West Sacramento. The incident occurred at around 3:15 a.m.

"One of these kids was reported out and about by his mother, who was concerned that he might be out looking to steal a car," said Farmer. "Coincidentally, an officer saw him driving a car and knew he didn't own it."

Police reports indicate that officers knew the owner of the Chevrolet Blazer, and knew it was unlikely the owner would be driving it at that time of the morning. W.S.P.D.'s Officer Wittkins spotted the vehicle near May St. and Myrtle St., and a vehicle stop was attempted.

Council nixes bed & breakfast idea

Still under consideration for firehouse are new use as museum, visitors center, cafe

The West Sacramento City Council on Wednesday approved a $28,300 contract with McCabe-Pressey Architects to evaluate the former Washington Firehouse building in the Broderick Area and suggest future uses.

The council deleted the proposed "bed and breakfast" use for the property, but other uses identified include a museum, visitor's center, retail/office, and restaurant/cafe.

The architectural firm will involve creating designs for each of these uses and develop cost estimates to implement each one.

The contract award follows a "request for proposal" process administered by the city and will include public meetings.

Corrections

An article last week on residents John and Grace Ohlson requires a correction.

The article referred to past-county supervisor Clark Cameron as also being a former city council member. Cameron was never on West Sacramento's city council, and the title of "county supervisor" in the same sentence suffered from a typographical error.

Also in last week's paper, a front page item submitted from the city government differed from a page 7 item, also submitted by the city, on the issue of where the Dec. 16 city council meeting was to be held.

The inside item was correct; the meeting was held at Southport Elementary School and not at the usual city hall location.

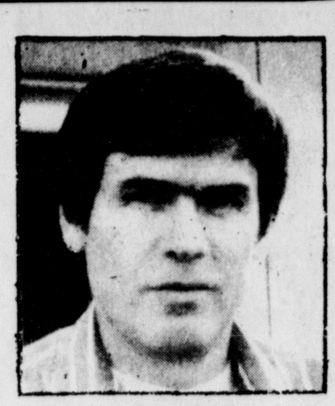
My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

One of the things I most enjoy about the Christmas season is that I get to watch Frank Capra's "It's A Wonderful Life" on television at least two or three times.

For those of you who haven't seen it in awhile, it's an old RKO movie starring Jimmy Stewart as George Bailey, a dreamer who desperately wants to get out of tiny Bedford Falls, USA, and make a better and more exciting life for himself; Donna Reed as his gorgeous wife, Mary, who loves small town life and wants to raise a family in that atmosphere; Thomas Mitchell, George's bumbling but sweet brother-in-law, Uncle Billy; and Lionel Barrymore as the evil Mr. Potter, the richest and meanest man in town.

The supporting cast is especially endearing, too, including Ernie the cab driver, Bert the policeman (the original Ernie and Bert), Mr. Gower, the druggist, and of course, Clarence, George's guardian A.S.C. (Angel Second Class).

As the movie fades in (the black and white version is by far the best), we see a young George Bailey saving the life of his even younger brother, Harry, who has accidentally fallen into an icy pond while playing with his friends. This turns out to be just the first of numerous people and moments in time which are directly affected by the life of George Bailey.

As George grows older, he also keeps Mr. Gower from accidentally giving one of his customers a deadly prescription of drugs; he generously gives the money he had saved for his own college education to his brother and sends him off to the university he himself had long dreamed of attending; and he reluctantly takes over the leadership of the family business, an old savings and loan company which never makes any money, but allows many of the citizens of Bedford Falls to live in decent homes which they can someday hope to own themselves.

So, poor George Bailey never gets the opportunity to fulfill any of his most cherished dreams. He never gets to attend college; he never becomes a famous architect who travels all over the world constructing airports and grand buildings; and he never makes the kind of money which would allow him the freedom to leave Bedford Falls once and for all.

What George Bailey does end up doing, however, is marrying Mary Hatcher, a hometown girl who has been crazy about him ever since she can remember, and it isn't long before they are raising children in the drafty old Grandville house. Now, how anyone in their right mind can possibly consider a lifetime with Mary (I have long had this thing about Donna Reed -- especially when she was young) as anything less than the crowning achievement of one's life is beyond me, but that is where the plot finds George as Christmas Eve, 1945 arrives.

Uncle Billy has somehow misplaced $8,000 of the savings and loan's assets and with Mr. Potter's diabolical help, it looks like George is going to end up in jail, his life and reputation shot. In a moment of tearful regret that his life has been so meaningless, he wishes that he had never been born.

Clarence the angel, desperately in need of acquiring his wings, decides to grant George his wish and we begin to see what a world without George Bailey would have really been like. Among other things, his brother would have died at the age of nine, because George would not have been around to save him; Mr. Gower, the druggist, would have accidentally killed one of his best customers; most of the nice citizens of Bedford Falls would have been forced to live in the slums of Pottersville instead of beautiful Bailey Park; and although I personally find this one difficult to swallow, Mary would have ended up an old maid working in the town library.

The movie ends with George happy and appreciative to be back among the living in general and his family in particular, Mr. Potter thwarted in his greedy effort to gain control of the Bailey Savings and Loan, and with everyone in town over at George's s house showering him with money and singing Auld Lang Syne.

Clarence also finally gets his wings (he's been trying for 200 years) and he leaves George a note, explaining that "No man is a failure who has friends."

No matter how many times I watch this movie, I never get tired of being reminded that none of us get it all, and that at least once a year, it doesn't hurt to sit down and seriously count all our blessings.

But maybe even more important than that is the needed reminder that every life makes a huge difference, often in ways we don't even understand, and that sooner or later, somewhere along the line, each and everyone of us gets to spend a moment or two doing the Charleston with Donna Reed.

Guest Commentary and Report:

City staff practices emergency response center activation

From Art Schroeder
Community Relations
Redevelopment & Housing Agency
City of West Sacramento

For some, the experience recalled last February's activation of the city's Emergency Operations Center (EOC), brought about by slow rise flood warnings. But this time it was only a test.

Approximately 40 managers and staff members from all city departments recently participated in emergency response training at the EOC, conducted by the West Sacramento Fire Department. The lesson was "practice makes perfect." The exercise tested the ability of the EOC to react effectively to an emergency event. The scenario simulated a "full alert" flood stage, in which West Sacramento's surrounding waterways were said to be rising to within a few feet of the levee's crest.

"Fire and police personnel face emergencies almost daily, but what happens when you place people without that background, into an emergency situation?" asked Fire Chief Fred Postel. "We were impressed to see how people from different disciplines came together. The city performed very well."

The training is based on the Standardized Emergency Management System (SEMS), which was adopted by state legislators in the aftermath of the Oakland Hills fire of 1991. Cities are required to receive SEMS training before they can qualify for state and federal reimbursements for personnel hours and resources expended during emergencies. West Sacramento is one of the highest trained jurisdictions in the region.

SEMS developed a common terminology to assist the communication between various agencies. The main component of SEMS is the Incident Command System (ICS), which establishes the organizational structure within the EOC to coordinate people, supplies, equipment and support services.

"The EOC can be activated for any unplanned emergency of a long duration," said Chief Postel. "The city needs to be ready for anything: fires, floods, earthquakes, train derailments, chemical releases or even a major freeway incident."

Following the exercise, participants reviewed lessons learned and shared ideas on making the EOC work more efficiently, from hanging erasable message boards to posting detailed maps of the area. While it was only a test this time, the experience will help the city and local agencies to rapidly deliver essential public services in the event of a real emergency.

By Richard Novoa

The NFL regular season is down to the last week and the 49ers are in and the Raiders are out! The Raiders (8-7) were out even with their 17-10 win over the Chargers, while the 49ers (11-4) are in with their 24-21 loss at New England. The Raiders were eliminated from the playoffs, when the Patriots, who earned a playoff spot with their victory, pulled off the upset of the year on the conservative play calling 49ers. The 49ers were leading 21-14 late into the fourth quarter but decided to sit on their seven point cushion. The 49ers defense played a solid game on Sunday against New England's back-up QB but it was their lack of confidence in the field goal kicker "Wide Richey" that caused their doom. The 49ers didn't score one point in the second half last week! Have you noticed 49ers coach Mariucci's knees knocking when their field goal opportunities come around!

The 49ers now face a must win game next Sunday (1:05 Fox) at 3-Com Park against the St. Louis Rams. The wild-card 49ers first round opponent will be their arch-rivals, the Green Bay Packers. The only question left to answer is where will these two wild-card teams hammer it out!

If the 49ers win on Sunday, the game will be at 3-Com Park. If the Packers beat the Bears on Sunday and the lowly Rams knock off the 49ers, the game will be played on the frozen tundra of Lambeau Field. The Packers, who own the 49ers, ended the Niners season in 1995 and 1996 in divisional playoff games and last year beat them in the NFC title game. The Niners' defense, offense and special teams will need to come together real soon or the Packers will end their season in two weeks! Look for the scared 49ers to beat up the Rams next week even with a banged up Steve Young (knee sprain).

Last week, I lost two games (49ers -3, Bucs -3) but I did manage to pick Miami (+3) in the Monday night game. My record now stands at 26 wins, 18 losses, 1 tie and assuring me of finishing the regular season above .500! I'm proud to say I have a better record than Chris Berman on ESPN! It's very difficult to pick three winners every week, especially against the point spread!

In the last week of the regular season all the playoff spots are locked up except the NFC's last wild-card. Arizona (8-7) can clinch a playoff berth with a win or a N.Y. Giants loss. If New York (7-8) wins and both Arizona and Tampa lose, the Giants go. Tampa Bay (7-8), who choked last week in Washington, can still get into the big dance with a win over Cincinnati and an Arizona loss and a Giants win! Got it! Here's my picks for week 17 - Giants (-5) over the Eagles, the Packers (-7) will feel like they're at home in the snow of Chicago, and on Monday night take the Steelers plus the 4 points over the Central Division winners and playoff bound Jacksonville Jaguars.

Next week, I'll have my picks for all the playoff games as the 12 teams prepare for the long road to Super Bowl XXXIII on Jan. 31 in Miami. This is my favorite time of year, college bowl games for two weeks and the NFL playoffs! I love this game! Merry Christmas and enjoy your holidays!

See ya next week!

Guest Comments:

Yes, Virginia, there still is a Santa Claus

By request, the News-Ledger once more presents the famous editorial penned by Francis P. Church of the New York Sun, 101 years ago this month.

Mr. Church's answer to a little girl named Virginia who lived on West 95th Street seems as good as any on the subject of Santa Claus, even more than a century later.

It's certainly worth a visit once a year:

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is among the friends of The Sun:

Dear Editor! I am 8 years old.

Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

Papa says, "If you see it in The Sun, it's so."

Please tell me the truth: Is there a Santa Claus?
Virginia O'Hanlon
115 West 95th St.

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal life with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men who ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

Thanks to generous volunteers

On behalf of the City of West Sacramento Parks & Community Services Department Senior Center, I would like to extend a huge thank you to the West Sacramento Rotary Club members and spouses, Raley's, and the community members who purchased gifts for over 150 senior citizens in West Sacramento. The Rotary Club organized a "giving tree" at Raley's, Senior Center and Elderly Nutrition Program staff assisted with getting names of those who might enjoy a special gift, Raley's allowed the Rotary Club to set up in the store, and local residents responded by purchasing over 150 gifts. The gifts were then delivered by Rotarians, Senior Center staff and volunteers, and Elderly Nutrition Program staff and volunteers. Those receiving the gifts responded with hugs, smiles, thank yous and expressions of sheer joy. What a difference a gift from the heart can make. Thank you to everyone who participated.

Questioning city billing process

Not long after West Sacramento became a city the water, sewer, and garbage bill came a few days earlier each month until we were paying the bill in the month being billed or paying a penalty of ten percent if only five days past the last day of the current billing period.

If a resident leaves area, on vacation or family problems, before receiving the bill and is gone past the fifth of the next month the penalty is on the bill.

What is the reason for the penalty, and what is the penalty money used for? The other utilities in the area do not charge a penalty. Charter Cable does, but this is not a necessary service.

Since banks or other savings institutions do not pay ten percent for savings or checking accounts, why doesn't the city have a reduced rate for paying bi-monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually, the city could send one bill the first period of the year that needed a statement with perforated coupons for the entire year. The city would not have to send another bill until the next year or for notification of late charges. We do not need a bill to tell us that we owe $0.00. This would save the postage along with the other billing expenses every month.

Would the City also consider using a regular envelope like the Sacramento Bee does? The city address could be printed the same time as the current return address printing on the envelope. If this idea doesn't work for you at least put the city address on the front of the bill like all the other billings are that we receive.

How many years are left on the water company purchase. Will this bond be paid off on time. What is the date of the final payment.

Possible savings include postage, envelopes, return envelopes, interest on deposit and accounting costs.

Impeachment for adultery

Our U.S. House of Representatives, by a party-line Republican majority vote, has voted to impeach President Bill Clinton and it is all about sex outside the marriage, although the technical charges are like "lying under oath," etc. The question of impeaching the president now goes to the U.S. Senate, where 67 of our 100 Senators must approve and Republicans control about 10 fewer votes than that.

Since Big Tobacco employed Judge Ken Starr at $1,000,000.00/year prior to his present job (to bring down Bill Clinton by whatever means), it would be quite interesting to find out what kind financial support Big Tobacco has been giving to members of Congress, present, future and past during the "war to dump Clinton." (TIME Magazine has named Ken Starr and Bill Clinton as co-recipients of the title, "1998 Person of the Year." Shared title of whoever had the greatest effect on the world, whether positive or negative.) Again, it would also be interesting to know if Judge Ken Starr was Big Tobacco's legal counsel back when their CEO's swore under oath that "(consumption of) Tobacco does not cause cancer." For if he was, Judge Starr would have been encouraging Big Tobacco to do the very thing his grand jury has charged Clinton with: Lying under oath to Congress. And public health with tobacco is far more important and costly to the nation than what should be the president's private sex life.

It is also very ironic that those Republican members of Congress who have been leading the drive to dump twice-elected President Bill Clinton have themselves been cheating on their wives; e.g., Henry Hyde, Dan Burton, Newt Gingrich, and (most recently) Bob Livingston, who was slated to take over House leadership from Mr. Gingrich; however, since Mr. Livingston was about to be exposed as a "sex cheat" by Larry Flint's Hustler Magazine, he "fessed up," said he would resign soon and challenged Clinton to do likewise. That is a disproportionate challenge since the nation did not elect Livingston. Today's "3 R's" might stand for "Righteous Republicans Resigning." Since Hustler apparently paid only $1 million to "get the dirt" on Livingston, maybe future Ken Starr(s) could take note and save much taxpayer money and time just by running an ad in that magazine. Another irony: Bob Dole, who lost the last presidential election to Bill Clinton, must envy Clinton since Dole not only uses and swears by that Viagra sex stimulant, but appears to be helping to advertise for them. (Do they have an "anti-Viagra?") A military question: When are we going to do away the title, "Rear Admiral?"

Where else do cheaters judge cheaters? Judge not... Congress should get out of the bedrooms of consenting adults lest we all have Uncle Sam's cameras in our homes. Don't potential jurors at all levels fill out questionnaires for fitness to serve, including that of eliminating conflict of interests? Do U.S. Senators fill out any such forms or are all automatically qualified? The overall behavior of the House warns us otherwise. To vote to impeach President Clinton over such "naughty boy" charges would set a dangerous precedent for future presidents when Congressional majorities are of the other political party, which has been the big majority of the 20th century, when Republican presidents have occupied the White House. Democrats and the voting public will not easily forget if today's Republican U.S. Senate majority votes to impeach and expel President Clinton, whose wrongs pale compared with late Richard Nixon's. Two-thirds of voting public, according to all polls, agree. Listen to your constituents, Senators.

Impeachment for lying is the 'right thing'

(Don't dismiss my correspondence out of hand, as I'm not part of what the media calls "The Religious Right." (I'm a non-practicing Protestant, whose parents met singing Christmas Carols in 1939, then married in June of 1940. I was born in May of 1941). I'm also not a "Prude," since I spent about 25 years playing music for a living in L.A., then San Francisco and the Bay Area, before getting tired of people "falling over" (so to speak), with needles in their arms, and me depending on them for work. Believe me, I've seen more than my share of the results of what some consider "Enlightened Lifestyles." I've lost more friends and co-workers to drugs and alcohol than most people ever see in a lifetime. Creative, loving, caring and talented people, but, junkies or alcoholics nonetheless. Moving to the Sacramento area in 1986, and changing what I do for a living, has gotten me away from that whole scene. Tolerance for anything, as long as it "feels good," is destructive.)

As the legal guardian, and de facto single parent, of my late fiance's now 11-year-old child, I find myself having to explain too many sexual matters being broadcast on the daily news (since mid-January, 1998) to a sixth grader. I've had to try and tell him (my boy) why some people think it's all right for the President to lie under oath, yet I and the rest of society expect him to always tell the truth. Explaining why some people think that what the President does in "The People's House" is none of our business has proved to be a mind-twisting experience, at best. To say that his respect for political institutions, the "adults" in charge of them, and adults in general has fallen, would be an understatement to say the least.

Having this boy, in these times, I'm reminded of a much earlier era when I crossed the country by train with my parents during World War Two. I remember Pullmans and coaches filled with soldiers, airmen, sailors and marines, all going to do their duty. Some for God and country, others for adventure, yet all went to fight against very real threats to freedom and decency at home and abroad. I wonder how many of those faces I saw as a child came home again safely, if at all? I wonder what those men and women in the armed forces who died back then, without having lived through transitionary times, would think of what we, as a nation and a culture, have become? Would they understand the term "Moral Relevance?" How about the concept that "lying isn't lying, perjury isn't perjury, and is isn't is. Is it?" I believe that there comes a time when we, as a nation, through our elected representatives, must stand up and say in a loud and clear voice:

Enough! I believe they would demand Bill Clinton's resignation. I would agree with them. I've come to this decision, regarding the impeachment, and eventual trail and removal from office of the President of the United States of America, with a heavy heart but a clear conscience. I hope the concepts of Honor, Duty, and the Right Thing haven't been lost in this country.

Before Judge Barry last Tuesday Manuel Flores of Sacramento was sentenced to six months in the county jail on a charge of simple assault. Flores had been accused of stabbing a friend about two weeks ago with a knife and inflicting serious wounds while he and his friends were out on a spree. The testimony at the trial went to show that he is an industrious man, living at 1521 Fourteenth street, Sacramento, and has two children and a young wife to support. On presentation of this evidence, Judge Barry suspended the six months sentence, but warned him to keep out of Washington and get back to his job as quickly as possible.

Ben Fontz, working at Twelfth and H streets, Sacramento, was arrested last Wednesday by Traffic Officer Jacobs because he failed to show up on a citation given him on November 15 for reckless driving. When he showed up last Wednesday he made many kinds of excuses, declaring that he did not understand that he was to appear and several of a similar character. On the showing made by him, Judge Barry fined him $50.00 or fifty days in the county jail. He paid the fine.

Backing quietly out of the yard of his home and a heavy fog hanging over the locality he was run down by Fred Kripp of Sacramento, who was out doing some early work on his ranch near the M street bridge. Kripp failed to see the truck driven by "Rosie" Thomas and ran into it, damaging Kripp's Premier car in the amount of about $100. The Thomas truck was scarcely marred, having only a few paint scratches visible after the collision.

West Sacramento Improvement Association Makes Auspicious Start at Large Meeting Held Last Friday Night

At the headquarters of the West Sacramento Company last Friday evening about sixty taxpayers and residents of the district were present in response to a call that had been sent out through the Independent and through the mail asking the formation of a club.

Headquarters was crowded to the doors and following the meeting refreshments were distributed by the ladies of the club to everybody present.

A. M. Jongeneel, who had been named temporary chairman at a previous meeting, presided last Friday evening.

Under his direction a set of by-laws had been written out with the aid of J. P. Carrico and J. B. Pettijohn.

These by-laws were adopted at the meeing last Friday night and at the same time the name of the club was settled as West Sacramento Improvement Association.

The by-laws of the club provide that members will pay dues in the amount of 50 cents for each quarter or $2.00 per year.

A board of directors consisting of seven will be the governing body of the organization. Of these seven directors, three are to be elected and the other four will be the elected officers of the association.

All persons who are owners or their representatives, renters, and residents over 18 years of age, are eligible to membership in the club.

An election of officers was made by secret ballot, everybody present being entitled to cast a vote.

The result of this ballot showed that A. M. Jongeneel received 31 votes, J. P. Carrico 19, and J. B. Pettijohn 16.

A. M. Jongeneel was immediately declared president of the association.

The by-laws also provide that several committees will be named by the president. These are: Road Committee, five members; Ditch Committee, five members; Entertainment and Reception Committee, eleven members; Levee Committee, five members; Membership Committee, five members; Advertising and Publicity Committee, five members.

These committees will be named by the president before the next meeting. All meetings of the club will be held on the first Friday of each month.

Other officers elected at the meeting last Friday evening were: J. P. Carrico, first vice president; C. T. Williams, second vice president.

A section of the by-laws provides that the association shall be non-political and non-sectarian.

Quite a contest took place when it came to the election of directors. Three of these to act with the four elected officers are to to constitute the board of directors.

Nominations were made consisting of seven members: C. C. Metcalf, J. Maguire, T. J. Carrico, Earl Withycombe, J. J. Scott, F. E. Miller and J. C. Bode.

The result of the election for directors was as follows in votes: J. J. Scott, 51; F. E. Miller, 44; T. J. Carrico, 35; C. C. Metcalf, 25; J. Maguire, 25; E. Withycombe, 17; J. C. Bode, 13.

The three first named above were declared elected to the board of directors.

Following the routine business of the association, J. P. McAnulty delivered an eloquent talk on the possibilities that lie in the future for the West Sacramento district, but asked that each and every one of those present co-operate in the work of improvement.

Mr. McAnulty promised that the street work in Westgate would be started within the next week and that other important improvements were about to be taken up by the promoters of the district.

He called attention to the possibility of building a bridge from the foot of W street in Sacramento, which would land traffic right at headquarters in West Sacramento.

When the meeting adjourned everybody present was asked to remain and partake of refreshments which had been procured by the ladies of the immediate neighborhood.

LEVEE ROAD CLEARED AND GRADED TO RIVERVIEW

South of West Sacramento headquarters and extending nearly to Riverview, the work of clearing and grading the levee road has been completed.

The cost of this work was allowed by the board of supervisors of Yolo County out of the general fund and not, as some people believe, out of the district fund of the first supervisor district.

The shoulders placed on the improved highway on Jefferson Boulevard and which are now completed, were also done out of the general fund of the county treasury and not out of the road fund of the first supervisor district.

It is the ambition of Supervisor Buckingham to get the levee road rocked or macadamized early next spring, if possible, and if the work cannot be done during the spring it will be done soon after July 1 when funds will be available.

This stretch of road runs a distance of about 3½ miles along the crown of the levee as far as the Sousa ranch. At that point it turns off the levee to meet the concrete highway that runs to Riverview Station.

The levee road is a favorite place for fishing and bathing, especially for the people of this district. Indeed, hundreds of people from Sacramento use this road every Sunday in their bathing and fishing expeditions. There is ample shale and much enjoyment for those who take pleasure in the sport.

RANCHER IS KILLED ON RABBIT HUNT NEAR RYDE

Tony A. Abrew, a rancher, living five miles southeast of Ryde, was killed last night when his shotgun accidentally exploded as he was hunting rabbits on his farm.

The charge struck him in the abdomen and, though the man was rushed to Sacramento by Deputy Sheriff Harry Bryant, he was dead before he could be given treatment at the Sutter Hospital.

An account of the accident, as secured by Coroner John T. Skelton, is to the effect that Abrew had been raking dead asparagus plants yesterday afternoon. Beside him, on his raking machine, he placed a shotgun in order to shoot rabbits as he worked. The weapon fell against the rake and exploded, the charge of light shot striking Abrew full in the body.

MAN KILLED NEAR YOLO CAUSEWAY BY AUTO DRIVER

Woodland, Dec. 7.—Efforts were being made this morning to link the driver of an automobile registered from Vallejo, found wrecked in a ditch a mile east of the Yolo causeway, with the death of an unidentified man, whose body was found near the car early Sunday morning. The man, evidently a laborer, had been dragged by a machine for more than fifty feet.

Constable Leroy Hillhouse and Captain of Traffic Henry P. Jacobs were notified of the death, as was Coroner Ross C. Wilson, who took charge of the body yesterday morning.

This morning Wilson had nothing which would identify the dead man and was conducting a search for relatives or friends.

According to first reports of the accident, the motorist struck the man and fled without rendering aid. The automobile was later discovered, the driver having disappeared, and while nothing was discovered to connect the automobile with the death of the unidentified laborer, authorities have a suspicion that the car may be in some way connected with the accident as it was ascertained that the automobile went into the ditch shortly after the accident occurred.

According to Traffic Officer Jacobs, the car, which was a Durant coupe, contained some wine, which had been spilled when it turned into the ditch. The car was on the wrong side of the road, Jacobs stated.

The body was discovered by a group of negro children, who reside near the scene of the accident, and later found by Ed. Orser, resident of this city. A Japanese rancher is said to have notified the coroner of the accident.

According to Wilson, the man was evidently walking on the highway when the accident occurred. It is believed that the man was about 35 years of age. The body lay in the road several hours before it was picked up, it is stated.

An inquest will be held on the accident in a few days, according to Wilson.

FIVE ACRES SOLD BY WEST SACRAMENTO COMPANY NEAR THE NEW SUBWAY

Adjoining the Lawrence property north of the new subway that is being built under the Sacramento Northern Railroad tracks, D. J. Silvey and J. I. Silva have purchased from the West Sacramento Company five acres of land.

The Silva boys took over the Lawrence property some time ago and in order to fill out their holding, purchased the five acres immediately west of the Lawrence place.

It is understood that the price paid was about $200 per acre. The deal is not yet completed but will be finished before the end of the week.

BOOSTERS' CLUB DEVOTES TIME TO SHACK BUILDING

At the meeting of the Washington Boosters' Club last Tuesday evening in the town hall, the question of the prevention of building shacks within the town limits took up considerable time.

A large meeting of property owners was held last Tuesday evening and each and every person present was deeply interested in this important question.

Property owners recognize that the construction of shacks in vacant lots is no credit to the community and in addition is threatening the valuations of property that exist at the present time.

Those present at the meeting last Tuesday evening expressed themselves as being deeply opposed to these shacks because as long as they exist no decent homes will be erected in their neighborhood.

Then again, it has been noticed that these shacks are a drawing card for the very poorest class of people, people who are anxious to take advantage of the cheapest possible living conditions, and who are really only itinerants, ready to move at any moment.

In addition, these shacks are good hiding places for criminals who would temporarily get out of the way of peace officers and find these shacks convenient places for the time being.

The rentals of those shacks vary between $10 and $20 a month and really menace a community where they are established because they are an incentive to idleness and laziness.

It is an acknowledged fact that property values in the neighborhood of these congregated shacks must depreciate and can never recuperate as long as those buildings exist.

The Boosters' Club recognizes that these shacks are more of a detriment to the Washington community than all the Chinese gambling houses put together or all the bootleg joints combined.

While gambling houses can be suppressed and bootleggers forced to move, these shacks are, on the surface, respectable and clean places for poor people to live, but at the same time are not conducive to progress for any community or any place where they are established.

In denominating these shacks, the Boosters' Club wants it understood that no reference whatever is made to the camping grounds, where the avowed purpose is to house people for a night or two in temporary quarters, allowing them to move on to other places in a few days.

The camping grounds are now necessary to the traveling public and indeed the camping grounds in Washington have been a drawing card for the community because they give travelers sufficient time to look around for investments at a small expense.

The question of prevention of more building of these shacks will be placed in the hands of the fire commissioners to see if something cannot be done to prevent further extension.

Another question that was discussed at the meeting last Tuesday night was the collection of garbage. It appears that the colored men who have lately been collecting garbage gave up the job because the owner of a property that had been used for dumping grounds threatened the collectors with vengeance and with a shotgun if they dumped any more garbage on his property.

As a solution of this question a committee of three was appointed to find if it would not be possible to get permission from the city authorities of Sacramento to haul the garbage out of Washington to the incinerator north of the city limits of Sacramento.

It was argued that Sacramento was taking the sewerage of North Sacramento and that perhaps the city authorities would be glad to permit the incineration of the garbage from the homes of Washington as a like favor.

E. A. Palm, A. M. Cameron and J. Pereira were appointed a committee of three to interview the city authorities of Sacramento in relation to this question.

Refreshments were served after the meeting and a social hour of conversation enjoyed by those present.

was from DART the Diving Accident Rescue Team of volunteer divers who assist in underwater rescues and similar emergencies.

Last week, Smith and Mrs. McDaniels' class hosted the News-Ledger's editor for a talk about jobs in the newspaper trade, news on the internet, the trustworthiness of news, how a news article is constructed, and other topics.

Smith is a native of Carlsbad, New Mexico, who moved to Southern California when he was five and later worked for an aircraft company. He then moved to northern California, and served as warehouse manager for Mac Tools for 31 years before retiring (the company has since removed its local office). He shares his Roseville home with his wife, Janie.

But retirement three years ago didn't stop Smith from working with West Sacramento's schools.

"I had done it for seven years, and I couldn't get out," he joked.

It's unclear how many other local professionals are currently "adopting" schools in West Sacramento, but Smith volunteered to offer pointers to anyone interested in giving the idea a try. He can be reached at (916) 782-2295.

Chamber of Commerce director Don Hill said that the Chamber remains interested in sponsoring an "Adopt a School" program, and interested people may contact the Chamber for information.

The suspect, bleeding "profusely" from the scalp, was then spotted by Officer Abel in front of a West Capitol Ave. bowling alley and detained. He was identified by both store employees and the event was captured on the store's video camera as well.

Henry Lawrence Gutierrez, 31, was treated at UCD Medical Center and then booked.

The store's employees were not seriously injured.

Approved repairs to the breezeways along wing 1 and 2 at Evergreen School, for safety reasons.

Adopted board resolutions 989-7 and 989-8, authorizing tacking assignments outside authorized credential areas and approve and authorize the teaching assignments.

Approved that employees be reclassified to probationary 1 or probationary 2 status.

Approved both certificated and classified personnel recommendations, as presented, with an addendum to both recommendations.

The next regular meeting of the board will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 12, 1999, at 7 p.m. in the city council chambers, located at 2101 Stone Blvd. in West Sacramento.

The car with the three youngsters did not yield, and police began a chase that led to the Sacramento areas of West El Camino Ave., Truxel Rd., Richards Blvd., downtown Sacramento, and then westward over the Yolo Causeway to the Chiles Road and the Cowell/Mace areas in Davis, then back eastward to where the California Highway Patrol (which had taken the lead in the pursuit) finally stopped the vehicle at Jibboom and Richards in Sacramento, using a "nail strip" across the road.

During the chase, the youths maintained a moderate speed, rarely breaking the speed limit.

Taken into custody were two 15-year olds and one 14-year olds. All three boys were West Sacramento residents.

Tis the season: police sobriety checkpoint nets three DUI arrests

Returning to a holiday tradition, West Sacramento police conducted a "sobriety checkpoint" on westbound Sacramento Ave. near Todhunter Ave. four about four hours Friday evening.

646 drivers were screened, five received field sobriety tests, and three were arrested for driving while impaired, reports Sgt. Dan Ruden of the department's traffic division.

At the checkpoints, drivers are briefly interviewed by officers trained in identifying the symptoms of the influence of alcohol and other drugs. Those who appear to be under the influence may be asked to complete a field sobriety test.

Up the Chimney He Rose . . .

Is it Magic, or Physics?

"'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse." So begins the much loved poem by Clement Clarke Moore about Santa's visit to a household where "the children were nestled all snug in their beds, while visions of sugar plums danced in their heads." The poem has inspired generations of children and grown-ups alike with the wonders and the magic of Christmas. Much of the Santa Claus story invokes magic - but there's physics involved too!

Take just one aspect of Santa's visit: at each household stop he parks his sleigh, goes down the chimney and delivers presents under the Christmas tree for the good boys and girls of the house. According to the poem -- our definitive source for Santa facts -- the trip down the chimney is described as something of a free-fall: "Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound." After dropping off the gifts and taking a quick snack of milk and cookies, he leaves: "laying his finger aside of his nose...giving a nod, up the chimney he rose."

If the typical household chimney is 30 feet tall, simply dropping down the chimney would be dangerous indeed. More than 350 Yuletides ago, Galileo examined the motion of bodies falling under the constant acceleration of gravity. From his results, it is easy to calculate that in free-fall, Santa's descent would take about 1.4 seconds and he'd hit the hearth at about 30 miles per hour! (As Galileo showed, aside from air resistance, the drop time and impact speed do not depend at all on the mass of the body.) So let us assume that Santa probably slides down a rope tied to his sleigh on the rooftop.

Also, as we know, he is "chubby and plump," with a "little round belly, that shook, when he laughed, like a bowlful of jelly." No doubt, by bumping his tummy on the bricks during descent he would further brake his downward plunge, while rappelling down the rope like a mountain climber. In a chimney, this would be messy, so it's no surprise that "his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot."

Going back up the chimney offers a much more challenging physics problem. Santa could just climb, hauling himself hand-over-hand up his rope. But for such a chubby fellow that would be slow and strenuous -- much too demanding in view of his incredibly busy schedule. Even if Santa could leap like Michael Jordan, a quick jump up the chimney is also not feasible. With no room for a running approach, the jump would have to be from a standing start, and the world record for a vertical high jump is only 4 feet. In order to exceed that, and reach 30 feet, Santa would have to have a means to "blast off," like a human rocket. Simple calculations show that, in order to exit in a second or so, he'd would have to be subjected to uncomfortably strong forces; Santa would emerge not merely tattered but fractured.

Surely, "laying his finger aside of his nose," is a telling clue. Our conclusion is that in his cap he has a little electrical device of a kind that would have delighted Ben Franklin, who pioneered the understanding of electricity. The device evidently must be triggered by his finger, probably by interrupting a faint light beam near his glowing cheek. That would generate a photoelectric signal in a way described by Einstein in 1905. The device could then send a radio signal to activate a winch on the sleigh, thereby winding up Santa's tether and enabling him to rise effortlessly.

So up the chimney he goes – with a little help from physics – and into the night he flies in his reindeer-driven sleigh – with a lot of help from magic! Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good night!

Dudley R. Herschbach, Ph.D., is a professor of chemical physics at Harvard University and a Nobel laureate. He is an expert on molecular collisions and has devoted much of his time in recent years to enhancing public understanding of science.

Smoking Needles Bring Smiles

The Knit and Crocheting class that meets at the West Sacramento Senior Center on Thursday mornings were busy all year making items that brighten the holidays of many. Over 500 items which included afghans, lap ropes, hats, scarves, pot holders, slippers, placemats, socks, walker bags, and much more were made and distributed to local skilled nursing and assisted living facilities, Christmas Basket Project recipients, and Resource Center recipients. A big thanks to the small group of caring people who worked so hard to make the holidays happier for so many.

It is a fee-based program available monthly for children ages 5 through 11 years. Average cost is $6 per day for weekly/monthly registration, or a $7-per-day drop-in rate. Program staff will meet enrolled children in a designated spot in front of the school and transport them in city vehicles to Sam Combs Activity Center, where the program will be held. The child must be registered at the Parks and Community Services Office before attending the program. The department is located at 1951 South River Road in West Sacramento. Located on West Capitol Avenue, in the parking area between Blockbuster Video and Rite-Aid Pharmacy, the lot will be open every afternoon and evening until all the trees are sold. Don't let someone else buy your tree. Shop early for the best selection. The lot is a tradition fundraiser for the over 400 area youth who play organized baseball.
